

Advarra University and Training

Leverage a Learning Management System to Ensure Proper Training

Training and ongoing education are essential, ensuring users have the required knowledge to appropriately use, benefit from, and appreciate the value of the technology. Advarra University, Advarra's Learning Management System, enables customers to maximize their use of technology products via eLearning, videos, and other training content.

Advarra University is the main hub for all of the training opportunities to help your team and staff feel confident in navigating the technology in their day-to-day operations.

Advarra University Offers:

Engaging Content

Leverage interactive eLearning modules and videos to engage staff during their training. We offer over 50 eLearning simulations, as well as recorded webinars for OnCore users.

Manager-Level Access

Invite and assign any of Advarra's eLearning and videos to team members or new users. Up to three designated core team members are granted manager-level access.

Completion Reports

View reports on who has completed the required eLearnings for your organization.

Roll-out and Continued Guidance

Our Advarra trainers, manuals, and events will keep your team informed and guided throughout the onboarding process to implementation.

Advarra Training Services

Utilize Advarra's Training Services to bring expert knowledge to your organization.

Training users on clinical research technology can be challenging. Advarra's Training Services bring expert knowledge to your organization. Advarra hosts training events to help onboard your team, including:

Jump Start Training

Focusing on the administrative tasks and functionality planned for your core team, project sponsors, and all other key stakeholders. Training includes go-live and the required system knowledge to define high-level processes, beginning application setup and validation.

Workflow Workshop

Defining detailed workflows and process documentation.

End-User Training

Designed to ensure users can follow detailed work instructions and understand their responsibilities.

On-demand Content

We offer educational webinars that include continuing education credit.

Advarra's Training Services can also tailor training materials to your institution's unique requirements.